BOOKMARK CORNER

Celebrating India's pride

Victoria Memorial, Kolkata

The Victoria Memorial Hall was opened in 1921. It is also a museum where people could see before them pictures and statues of men who played a prominent part in the history of India and develop a pride in their past especially in relation to the history of Calcutta. The Memorial lies on the Maidan (grounds) by the bank of the Hooghly River, near Jawaharlal Nehru road. Presently it is the finest and most prominent building and art museum of Calcutta, India, under the Department of Culture, Government of India.

The Victoria Memorial's foundation stone was set in 1906 and the building opened in 1921. The work of construction was entrusted to Messrs. Martin & Co. of Calcutta. Work on the superstructure began in 1910. After 1947, when India gained independence, additions were made.

Atop the central dome of the Victoria Memorial is the 16 ft (4.9 m) figure of the Angel of Victory. Surrounding the dome are allegorical sculptures including Art, Architecture, Justice, and Charity and above the North Porch are Motherhood, Prudence and Learning. Like the Taj Mahal, the Victoria Memorial is built of white Makrana marble, as it is a memorial to an empress. In design, it echos the Taj Mahal with its dome, four subsidiaries, octagonal domed chattris, high portals, terrace, and domed corner towers.

TOP 5 HISTORICAL FACTS ABOUT INDEPENDENT INDIA

As a tribute to our nation on its 70th Independence Day, here are some lesser-known facts about India.

Birth of our National Anthem

When India became independent on August 15, 1947, there was no National Anthem. Even though the Bengali invocation of Jana Gana Mana was written in 1911, it was not considered as national anthem until 1950.

Why August 15th?

Lord Mountbatten chose the day since Aug 15 as it also commemorated the second anniversary of Japan's surrender to the Allied Forces. North Korea, South Korea, Bahrain and Republic of the Congo share their independence day with India.

What Mahatma Gandhi was doing on our first Independence Day?

On August 15, 1947, when India became free from the foreign rule, Mahatma Gandhi was in Calcutta. Gandhiji spent his day in prayers, fasting and spinning protesting the madness of communal hatred.

When Goa joined our nation?

After India's independence, Portugal amended its constitution and declared Goa as a Portuguese state. On 19 December 1961, the Indian Army began military operations with Operation Vijay resulting in the annexation of Goa, Daman, and Diu into the Indian union. On 30 May 1987, the union territory was split, and Goa was made India's twenty-fifth state, with Daman and Diu remaining a union territory.

Who can produce our National Flag?

Khadi Development and Village Industries Commission is the only licensed flag production and supply unit in India. As of 2008, the Karnataka Khadi Gramodyoga Samyukta Sangha based in Dharwad was the sole manufacturer of the flag.
